This selection is inspired by Marcel Duchamp's belief that the concept behind the artwork is more important than its visual or material form. This radical shift away from materiality created a foundation for artists to challenge traditional artistic forms and practices and opened the door to bold new directions. All of the artists included use their work to probe into an array of subject matters, and often redefine art in the process. If approached with an open mind, the photographs invite and inspire viewers to question their own assumptions about what art is. This exhibition presents a cross-section of Ronald Feldman Gallery's significant history and commitment to idea-driven work.
